Families in today's society are under a great deal of pressure and often lack adequate resources during times of need. Many issues (divorce, unemployment, abuse, mental illness and environment) can affect the strength and health of the family unit, causing a ripple effect for all of its members. .

According to the latest U.S. Census Bureau report, 26 percent of children live with only one parent and 17 percent live in poverty. Working with families to address issues is an important part of keeping communities healthy. Services for the modern family include counseling, career development and substance abuse treatment.

Since 1875, ASPENPOINTE has empowered clients, enriched lives and embraced purpose through individual and family services in mental health, substance abuse, employment & career development, education, housing, jail diversion & reintegration, telephonic wellness, and provider network services.
