Solutions for Employers

TeleCare can help support your employees in managing depression and/or Chronic Disease. Better self management of depression and chronic disease reduces time and productivity lost at work due to illness.

Overview:

The hidden costs of depression in American business are staggering, far surpassing the treatment costs employers absorb. Depression costs American business $63 billion each year, with $36.6 billion resulting from reduced productivity and increased absenteeism, not the cost of treatment. TeleCare can help your employees become happier and healthier, leading to improved productivity at work as well as at home.
